

ARDEX opens new plant in Thailand

Thursday, 26th January 2017

The ARDEX Group recently opened a new factory and laboratory in Thailand, located in Hemaraj Saraburi Industrial Estate, approx. 100 km from Bangkok.

The factory investment is worth more than 150 million Thai Baht (approx. 4 mio USD) and has an annual production capacity of 15,000 tons.

The primary focus will be the manufacturing of high-quality ARDEX Flooring and Tiling products in order to maximize the market opportunities in Thailand and in the surrounding countries.

“ARDEX Thailand will serve the Thai, Myanmar, Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam markets providing high-quality products, best services and favorable prices.”, said Mr. Charun Detpratrum (the JV-partner) during the opening ceremony in January 2017.

The Asia-Pacific region is one of the biggest and most dynamic drivers of the global development of the ARDEX Group. The construction of a new plant is a direct result of customer-driven demand and signifies further long-term growth for ARDEX.

“The ARDEX Group is fully committed with the development in SEA region and sees Thailand as a strategic gateway to highly dynamic Indochina markets. As a world leading solution provider, we want to make sure that we are close to the markets we are active in. We are confident that the new production facilities in Thailand will enable us to offer 1st class customer services and the specially engineered systems/products meet the local market requirements. In the case of high demand quantities, on-site production is extremely important. The new plant in Thailand ensures high availability and production according to local needs”, said Mark Eslamlooy (CEO ARDEX Group).

It is the second high-tech production facility in Southeast Asia apart from Singapore and symbolizes another remarkable milestone of ARDEX to be the world’s leading solution provider of high performance specialty building materials.

ARDEX Thailand office

Mark Eslamlooy
(CEO ARDEX Group)

Monk during opening ceremony